HAVEPOETRY.COM

GEMMA GORGA

GOOD MANNERS

The summer she turned seven
they gave her a wooden pencil case
with a pencil and eraser.
The pencil, so she could gnaw the lead
until she found the vagus nerve
of the word.
The eraser, to erase the word
before she could say it.